

April 2010 Shows

Café Specials with each Art Event!

Urban ARTS Collective

at Urban Eats Café

Tuesday, March 30, 5:30-7 PM

I am Lydia's House— PPRC Photography Project
The latest installment in the University of Missouri—St. Louis' ongoing Public Policy Research Center Photography Project features pictures taken by children living at Lydia's House, which provides transitional housing to survivors of domestic violence. Chinyere Oteh, a PPRC Photography Project instructor, as a college student, once volunteered for Lydia's House and coordinated this Project exhibit.

A Lydia's House child

Saturday, April 3, 5-8 PM

Broken – Thomas Shepherd, Artist

The show "Broken" deals with the individual components that create collage and the physicality and emotion of the disparate parts of the final construction.

Thomas Shepherd

Saturday, April 10, 4-7 PM

IN-DUS-TRI-AT-ICAL - Angie Griffith, Artist

Worn surfaces. Paint chips. Ink marks. Duct tape. Bold colors and lettering all represent part of the physical characteristics that I find interesting. I hope that each person who comes face to face with this series encounters a reaction that takes them back to a street, a place they remember from past experiences, as the industrial world is brought into a different environment.

Angie Griffith

Sunday, April 18, 11AM-1 PM

Natural Impressions— Naomi Silver, Artist

Benefit sale! Impressionist art that will remind you of the natural world. In her upcoming show, you'll see how Silver's spontaneously-created works are truly impressionist renderings of the natural world. Her subjects range from bodies of water to vegetation to celestial objects. 20% of all art sold at this show will be donated to the St Anthony's Food Pantry.

Naomi Silver

Sunday, April 25, 11-2:30 PM

Sign language – Hilary Hitchcock, Artist

Signs are usually intended to catch the eye; these are photographs of some that have caught mine.

Hilary Hitchcock

URBAN EATS
café & bakery

3301 Meramec, 63118 10-8 Mon — Sat, 10-3 Sunday
urbaneatscafe.com facebook.com/urbaneatscafe